Success Story

As a Rescue Captain in a small town, I was in search of an EMT class, and student success was a top priority. The students taking this course would be students with the common goal of being a part of their own community's volunteer rescue squad. They would need a drive to want to serve a dire need in rural small-town communities. I also needed to make the class work for them and their schedules. As these were a group of men and women with full time jobs with families, farms and a high school student taking full set of classes in addition to this course.

Iowa western and the EMS group of leaders and instructors brought this class to Woodbine, Iowa and met our needs. We needed an affordable class, in our community and it had to be in the wintertime to accommodate schedules. Putting this class together was a very streamlined process. The EMS leaders were easy to work with and great at communicating. I'm so proud to say all 11 students that took the class passed the class with 100%

Success rate. Iowa Western delivered! Not only did Iowa Western get them through the class but they prepared them so well that so far 7 of the 11 students have passed the national exam and are certified EMT's. I look forward to working with Iowa Western in the future. The future of volunteer EMS looks bright.
